Thinking about reaching the market? Partner with us!

Grow your business by building your own sensor from small prototyping to mass production. No matter what stage your application is at, Metrohm Dropsens can provide you with certified solutions to easily reach the market thanks to custom production and large manufacturing capability.

Optimize your design

Metrohm DropSens understands your application concept in depth thanks to our R&D experts. Engineering and final-art departments will help you to develop and implement your final prototype, always finding a solution where all of your specifications converge.

Manufacture under your demand

Take advantage of this ability to produce your demand efficiently and quickly, regardless of the quantity you request, meeting your future needs without running out of supply.

Reduce time to market

Be the first to deliver your sensor to the market, avoiding long processes and too many partners. Count on a quick and professional manufacturing capability by a company specialized in product launching and production for commercialization.

Highest quality standards

Your products will be manufactured with the highest quality in materials, printing and finishing. In addition, the solutions are approved by quality management systems, which allow the highest levels of reliability and stability in each product, guaranteeing its scalability.

Global support

Benefit from a complete global network of Metrohm partners that will provide you with everything you need. Resolve any incident immediately with ongoing and personalized superior support.

People you can trust

More than 75 years of experience from an established company delivering the best quality standards of products and services.

SOLUTIONS FOR MULTIPLE APPLICATION SECTORS

Agricultural.

Defence and security.

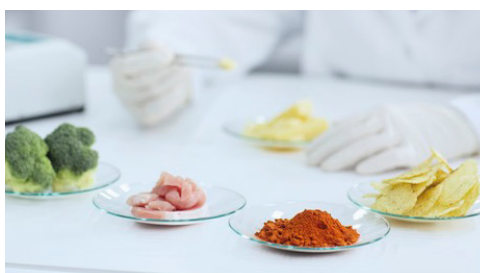

Environmental.

Biotechnology.

Clinical.

Food analysis.

Metrohm DropSens provides you with simple, portable and wireless equipment, electrodes and accessories for use in multiple applications and industries. All solutions are approved by regulatory certifications ISO 9001, which guarantees the quality management system, and ISO 13485 for the 'manufacture of sensors for medical devices'.

No matter the size or nature of your company, you can meet your expectations in terms of sensor design and production. Metrohm DropSens offers you the possibility to create your own design for any application achieving your necessary manufacturing requirements.
